The following text is for questions 6 to 9

There is one type of chickens which appears different from other chickens. These are called frizzles. Let's see what they are.

Frizzling is where the feathers start to curl upward and outward from the body, instead of lying flat against the body as in normal hen. The shaft of the feather starts to twist and curl causing the unique appearance of the feathers.

Frizzling is caused by an incomplete dominant gene. One copy of the gene present in one bird is sufficient to cause frizzling. A copy present in both parents birds will result in a high incidence of frazzles. Responsible breeders do not breed frizzle to frizzle. This would give you frazzle or curly chicks. The acceptable practice is to breed frizzle to a normal hen which will you a mix of regular and frizzled chicks. Frazzles are extremely delicate. The feathers can be so brittle that they break at a touch, feathering can be patchy or even near total baldness can result.

Frizzles do not need some special treatment because of their feathering. Since they cannot fly, they should have perches set lower down so that they can access them, otherwise they may 'pile up' together on the bedding. If you decide to free range them, the area should be predator proof as they cannot fly up and away from danger.

In extreme cold they should be carefully monitored as the feathering does not insulate as well as regular feathers do. In fact, any inclement weather - heat, cold, rain - is all a bit of a challenge for frizzles. The feathers do a poor job for keeping the chicken at a constant body temperature, so care should be taken to ensure their well-being.

The following text is for questions 19 to 22

There once lived an armadillo who loved music more than anything else in the world. After every rainfall, the armadillo would drag his shell over to the large pond filled with frogs and he would listen to the big green frogs singing back and forth, back and forth to each other in the most amazing voices.

"Oh," thought the armadillo, "Oh how I wish I could sing."

The armadillo would creep to the edge of the water and watch the frogs leaping and swimming in a frantic green ballet, and they would call back and forth, back and forth in beautiful, musical tones. He loved to listen to the music they made as they spoke, though he didn't understand their words; which was just as well - for the frogs were laughing at this funny animal that wanted so badly to sing like a frog.

"Don't be ridiculous," sang the frogs as they played. "Armadillos can't sing."

Then one day a family of crickets moved into a new house near the armadillo, and he was amazed to hear them chirp and sing as merrily as the frogs. He would creep next to their house and listen and listen all day, all night for their musical sounds.

"Oh," sighed the armadillo, "Oh how I wish I could sing."

"Don't be ridiculous," sang the crickets in their dulcet tones. "Armadillos can't sing."

But the armadillo could not understand their language, and so he just sighed with longing and listened to their beautiful voices laughing at him.

Then one day a man came down the road carrying a cage full of canaries. They were chirping and fluttering and singing songs that were more beautiful even than those of the crickets and the frogs. The armadillo was entranced. He followed the man with the cage down the road as fast as his little legs would carry him, listening to the canaries singing.

"Oh," gasped the armadillo, "Oh how I wish I could sing."

Inside the cage, the canaries twittered and giggled. "Don't be ridiculous," sang the canaries as they flapped about. "Armadillos can't sing."

19. "Oh," thought the armadillo, "Oh how I wish I could sing.". From the sentence we know that?

The Man Who Never Lied

Once upon a time there lived a wise man by the name of Mamad. He never lied. All the people in the land, even the ones who lived twenty days away, knew about him.

The king heard about Mamad and ordered his subjects to bring him to the palace. He looked at the wise man and asked : "Mamad, is it true, that you have never lied ?" "It's true." "And you will never lie in your life ?" "I'm sure in that." "Okay, tell the truth, but be careful ! The lie is cunning and it gets on your tongue easily."

Several days passed and the king called Mamad once again. There was a big crowd : the king was about to go hunting. The king held his horse by the mane, his left foot was already on the stirrup. He ordered Mamad :

"Go to my summer palace and tell the queen I will be with her for lunch. Tell her to prepare a big feast. You will have lunch with me then."

Mamad bowed down and went to the queen. Then the king laughed and said : "We won't go hunting and now Mamad will lie to the queen. Tomorrow we will laugh on his behalf."

But the wise Mamad went to the palace and said : "Maybe you should prepare a big feast for lunch tomorrow, and maybe you shouldn't. Maybe the king will come by noon and maybe he won't." "Tell me will he come, or won't he ?" asked the queen. "I don't know whether he put his right foot on the stirrup, or he put his left foot on the ground after I left."

Everybody waited for the king. He came the next day and said to the queen : "The wise Mamad, who never lies, lied to you yesterday."

Prawn and Crab Dim Sum

Ingredients

- 150g/5½oz raw tiger prawns, peeled, deveined and chopped
- 100g/3½oz fresh white crabmeat
- 15g/½oz fresh root ginger, finely grated

- 2 garlic cloves, finely grated
- 5g dried orange peel, soaked in boiling water for 20 minutes
- 3 fresh water chestnuts, peeled (alternatively use canned chestnuts if fresh unavailable)
- 3 tsp cornflour
- salt and black pepper
- 1 small carrot, diced
- 2 spring onions, finely sliced
- 18 wonton wrappers
- vegetable oil, for greasing
- soy sauce, for dipping

Method

1. Add the chopped prawns and crabmeat to a bowl with the ginger and garlic.
 2. Drain and squeeze the orange peel and finely chop. Add it to the bowl with the water chestnuts.
 3. Add two teaspoons of the cornflour to the same amount of water in a bowl and stir.
 4. Mix the cornflour mixture in with the seafood along with a good pinch of salt and pepper. Stir in the carrot and spring onion.
